LII's sales for the fourth quarter of 2003 increased 11% to $779 million. In constant currencies, sales were up 6%. Operating income was $30 million, up from $13 million last year, with operating margin more than doubling to 3.9%. Net income was $16 million, or $0.27 per diluted share, compared with $5 million, or $0.08 per diluted share in the year-ago period. Foreign exchange rates benefited earnings per share in the fourth quarter by $0.04.

Sales for full-year 2003 were $3.1 billion, up 7% from 2002, when adjusted for heat transfer revenue of $129 million included in the prior-year's sales - - essentially all of which is now part of LII's joint venture with Outokumpu and no longer reported by LII. Foreign exchange rates benefited revenue by 3%. Sales outside the U.S. and Canada accounted for 13% of total LII revenue. Operating income for the year grew 19% to $150 million, with operating margins expanding 70 basis points to 4.9% of sales. Before the cumulative effect of an accounting change in 2002, net income increased 31% in 2003 to $77 million, and diluted earnings per share rose from $1.00 to $1.28 on the same basis.

LII also generated very strong free cash flow of $113 million in 2003. Free cash flow consists of cash from operations of $55 million, less capital expenditures of $41 million, and excludes a $99 million reduction in the balance of the company's asset securitization program. Over the past three years, LII has used its cash flow to reduce total debt by $328 million. In 2003, operational working capital improved to 18.9% of sales from 19.6% the prior year.

"2003 was a very successful year for LII, with financial performance that exceeded our previous guidance," said Bob Schjerven, chief executive officer. "As we sharpened our focus on our three core businesses, we achieved a substantial improvement in our profitability, generated strong free cash flow and finished the year with a stronger balance sheet. Our businesses are well positioned for profitable growth and we are optimistic about 2004."

For 2004, the company said it expects diluted earnings per share will be in the range of $1.38 to $1.48, an 8% to 16% improvement over this year's result. Cash flow is expected to continue to be strong, with cash flow from operations less capital expenditures, excluding the impact of changes in the asset securitization program balance, approaching net income.

Fourth Quarter Segment Performance

Heating & Cooling revenue rose 14% in the fourth quarter of 2003 to $455 million. In constant currencies, sales were up 11%. Segment operating income increased 71% to $57 million, reflecting higher sales volumes and improved factory performance. Operating margins for the quarter rose to 12.6% from 8.4% in 2002.

Outperforming its market, the Residential Heating & Cooling segment increased revenue by 14% during the quarter to $323 million, driven by growth at LII's Lennox Industries and Armstrong units, as well as the company's hearth products business. Adjusting for foreign exchange, sales were up 11%. Operating income increased to $44 million from $28 million last year, with operating margins expanding to 13.5% from 9.7%.

Revenue in the Commercial Heating & Cooling segment was up 15%, or 10% adjusted for foreign exchange, to $132 million. Strong growth was achieved in national accounts and through the company's dedicated commercial sales districts. While demand in Europe remains soft, LII's European sales increased modestly. Segment operating income more than doubled to $14 million from $6 million last year, and operating margins improved to 10.4% from 5.2%.

Service Experts revenue rose 4% to $244 million. Adjusted for currency fluctuations, sales declined 1%. The segment posted an operating loss of $10 million for the quarter, compared with a loss of $2 million in the previous year. Although Service Experts maintained top-line sales, price-driven margin erosion continued, and labor inefficiencies further reduced profitability. Inventory valuations, percent-of-completion contract adjustments, bad debt expenses, and severance -- all primarily in the company's Canadian operations -- negatively affected segment earnings. The company has made a change in the leadership of the Canadian region and is moving ahead on the deployment of the STARS IT system in Canada to facilitate the consolidation of back-office accounting functions and improve the tracking of key business metrics.

"While our manufacturing businesses are indeed running well, the performance of Service Experts remains unacceptable," Schjerven said. "We have already moved to address specific issues in our Canadian operations. But with weak results throughout 2003 and no improvement evident in the fourth quarter, we are taking a more aggressive posture on turning Service Experts around."

The company will take action to refocus Service Experts on its original strategy, concentrating on profitable service, repair, and replacement opportunities in metropolitan markets. The company is in the process of closing four centers that were predominantly focused on longer-duration commercial new construction contracts and do not fit the original business strategy. These four centers incurred a combined operating loss of $4 million in 2003.

"Our actions to move Service Experts to improved profitability will continue in 2004 and we will update our progress no later than our first quarter report in April of this year," Schjerven said. "We are committed to taking whatever actions are necessary to realize Service Experts' potential."

Refrigeration segment revenue rose 14%, but was down 1% in constant currencies. Sales growth in Europe and North America was offset by a decline in the Asia Pacific region. Segment operating income was $7 million, down from $9 million from last year. Operating margins declined to 7.2% from 9.5% in fourth quarter 2002. End-market demand remained sluggish, and price concessions necessary to maintain domestic sales volumes pressured margins.
